BLACK HAND SECRET SIGNALS TERRIFIED WITNESS IN COURT

Nothing Could Make Him Tell Who Did the Stabbing.

New York, March 9.—Secret signals so terrified Benjamin Ochonero in the criminal branch of the supreme court today that he clutched his throat and gasped, with starting eyes:

"I wouldn't tell you who stabbed me for four million dollars."

Ochonero, who was beaten, stabbed and robbed of $50 and his gold watch by four men, refused yesterday to testify against two of them.

"My family and my relatives," he then said, "have been made to suffer. I tell my story my life will be taken."

Today his terror was even more extreme. Domenico Zerto and Amelio Zerto, who were charged with the crime, agreed to find him a suitable wife. He did not favor either of two candidates produced and refused to marry, or to agree to let his wife be married to either of them, and they attacked him.

"Which of these men cut you?" asked the judge.

Ochonero turned pale as he caught the eye of one of the prisoners, and would not tell.

"I will fine you $250 for contempt," threatened the court.

"I don't care what you do," answered Ochonero. He was ordered to believe for an examination of his sanity with the fine unremitted, pending a decision.

SENATOR PLATT BURIED IN OWEGO CEMETERY.

Pastor of First Presbyterian Church Warmly Eulogizes the Easy Boss.

Owego, N. Y., March 9.—On a hillside overlooking the village of Owego, the body of Thomas Collier Platt, former United States senator and for many years republican leader of New York state, was buried today.

The ceremonies at the first Presbyterian church and at the grave were brief and were attended by many of his friends and neighbors. The services were conducted by the Rev. George Douglas Young, and the little brick church was filled to the doors. Floral tributes almost hid the casket from view.

Mr. Young in the course of his eulogy said: "I call him the easy boss. He and they called him such because he didn't drive men, but rather drew them to himself. It was a joy and delight to have him around. They trusted him and his judgment, and they gladly followed his suggestions and directions."

DOUBT THAT PEARY EVER REACHED THE POLE

No Reward for Explorer Until Further Proofs Are Furnished.

Washington, March 9.—By a practically unanimous vote the subcommittee of the house naval committee today decided against bestowing any reward upon Commander Robert E. Peary until he has furnished further proofs that he discovered the North pole.

I confess that I am exceedingly skeptical about Mr. Peary's discovery of the pole," declared Mr. Mason, today, before the committee, and I am going to protest against any honor being conferred upon him until he has established beyond a reasonable doubt that he did discover it and it must be established in the open and not in the dark."

TILT IN THE HOUSE BETWEEN HOBSON AND PAYNE Over Bill for Military Highway Constructed by Military Prisoners.

Washington, March 9.—The general policy of constructing roads by convict labor was discussed in the house today in considering a bill providing for a military highway between Fort Leavenworth and Fort Riley, Kansas, with labor from the military prison at Fort Leavenworth. Opposition was expressed to having the government part in the building of any state road.

Representative Hobson of Alabama produced an amendment providing for division of the road between the government and the states whenever the secretary of war had approved plans for them as necessary.

There should be some great plan drawn up," said Mr. Hobson, "for the construction of roads in the United States under a single harmonious system. The roads of Alabama should fit into those of the adjoining states in every direction."

Mr. Payne of New York, the republican floor leader, suggested that this plan of roads all over the United States was comparable only to the Alaskan's contention for a greater war. He declared it would cost the United States to enter upon such a policy.

"My amendment provides that the United States shall pay but one-half," suggested Mr. Hobson.

"Ten per cent, of it would cost more than your war with Japan would cost in a thousand years," shouted Mr. Payne.

Mr. Hobson merely smiled in reply.

"Deliver the country from the immediate danger of the south," he said here from Alabama," concluded Mr. Payne, as he sat down amid a roar of laughter.

"The bill was then laid aside for the day."

CONGRESS.

Administration Railroad Bill in Senate—Court of Patent Appeals.

Washington, March 9.—The administration railroad bill was made the business of the senate for today and its consideration until passed cannot be interfered with except by appropriation bills. After the first reading, the senate concluded a number of bills were passed, including one to establish a court of patent appeals and one authorizing the construction of a building in Washington for the use of the departments of state, justice and commerce and labor.

The house considered bills on its calendar, passing several measures of local importance. During the early portion of the session it sustained a point of order by which the bill for the construction of an embassy building in foreign capitals will not be permitted again to come before the house during this session.

Both the senate and the house will be in session tomorrow.

CASE AGAINST STANDARD OIL.

"The Sherman Act Should Be Repealed or It Should Be Enforced."

Washington, March 9.—"Either the Sherman act should be repealed or it should be enforced in a manner to make the people respect it."

With this declaration of its guiding principle, the department of justice today filed with the supreme court a brief in support of its petition that "Standard Oil" be dissolved as in violation of the Sherman anti-trust law.

The brief will be the foundation of the government's oral argument at the hearing of the case by the supreme court next week. It bears the names of Attorney General Wickersham and of Frank B. Kellogg, Charles B. Morrison and C. A. Severance, as special assistants.

Nina's Lifeboat Picked Up

BY LIFE SAVING STATION MEN ON DELAWARE COAST.

Washington, March 9.—To settle any remaining doubt of the fate of the tug Nina, which foundered off the Delaware coast recently, the navy department sent the cruiser Birmingham from Norfolk to Metomkin Inlet life saving station on the Delaware coast to identify the small boat picked up on the beach there.

The Birmingham is now returning to Norfolk with the boat, which is now certain belonged to the tug. This is taken as final proof of the loss of the tug.

FINAL PROOF OF DISASTER

Cruiser Birmingham Returning to Norfolk With the Small Boat to Settle Any Remaining Doubt.

Washington, March 9.—To settle any remaining doubt of the fate of the tug Nina, which foundered off the Delaware coast recently, the navy department sent the cruiser Birmingham from Norfolk to Metomkin Inlet life saving station on the Delaware coast to identify the small boat picked up on the beach there.

The Birmingham is now returning to Norfolk with the boat, which is now certain belonged to the tug. This is taken as final proof of the loss of the tug.

The next step will be the issue of a formal notice of the loss of the vessel and the payment of two months' full wages to the dependent relatives of the lost sailors of the crew.

LOGAN M. BULLITT LOCKED UP BY ORDER OF MAYOR REYBURN.

Tried to Serve Subpoena on Philadelphia's Chief Executive in Equity Suit.

Philadelphia, March 9.—Logan M. Bullitt, son of the father of Philadelphia's charter, the Bullitt bill, and himself prominent in civil reform movements, was arrested tonight by order of Mayor Reyruburn and locked in a cell in the City Hall when he endeavored to serve the mayor with a subpoena, an equity suit brought by a committee of citizens against the city officials.

Bullitt is the head of the committee which has been making an exhaustive investigation of the city's financial affairs, and has threatened to file up all further expenditures by two bills in equity filed some time ago in the local courts. Hearing on these bills was set for next Saturday, and by order of the court subpoenas were issued for the heads of the various departments to bring in the records in their charge.

When Mr. Bullitt called at the mayor's office the mayor refused to see him, whereupon Bullitt stationed himself in the corridor and refused to leave when ordered by Detective McFadden, the mayor's bodyguard. Although he explained that he was an officer of the court and waiting to subpoena the mayor, the detective took him upstairs to the cell room, where he was seated and then locked up. His law partner, Robert D. Jenks, appeared shortly after and obtained a copy of the charge. Mayor Reyruburn told Jenks that he accepted full responsibility for McFadden's act.

Later in the evening Bullitt was released on an order signed by Magistrate German.

VILLAGE POLICE ARREST ARMED STRIKEBREAKERS

On Charge of Carrying Concealed Weapons—Nine Men Locked Up.

Corinth, N. Y., March 9.—Nine armed strikebreakers, brought here by the International Paper company in the express car, were arrested tonight by the village police, charged with carrying concealed weapons, and locked up. The police believed that any attempt to import strikebreakers on a large scale will be bitterly resented and is sure to provoke trouble.

Twice today dynamite cartridges were exploded under a railroad bridge over which strikebreakers must pass to enter Corinth.

The damage was slight, owing to scanty knowledge of how to handle dynamite, and tonight the damage has been repaired and the bridge is under guard by militia. Company L, Second regiment, N. Y. N. G., is stationed there to prevent disorder in case strikers or sympathizers resist an attempt to smuggle in non-union men under cover of darkness.

Several small parties of strikebreakers have been despatched from Saratoga to the mill at South Glens Falls, but none are being brought to Corinth tonight, and the main body of strikebreakers is still held there for orders.

GEORGIA BLOODHOUNDS ON TRAIL OF NEGRO

Who Shot the Overseer of a Plantation.

Columbus, Ga., March 9.—Armed posses with bloodhounds this afternoon followed the trail of Love Randall, a negro murderer, for fifteen miles across Stewart county in the direction of Columbus, with the certainty of a lynching if the negro was caught. Tonight hundreds are still searching for Randall a few miles beyond Columbus.

Following a dispute yesterday with Roland S. Kite, assistant overseer of the plantation on which Randall is employed, Randall and his wife attacked Kite, who was stabbed by the woman. Early this morning Randall stabbed R. Stratford, the overseer, as the latter was entering the plantation commissary. Stratford drew his pistol, but the negro managed to gain possession of it and shot Stratford to death.

Randall's wife, with a baby in her arms, crossed the river today to the Alabama side. There had been no attempt to harm the woman.
